We have to sleep on the chairs at the local hospital to wait for early transport to the appointment because we don't have R800 to travel there and back privately.

Kwandile dropped out of school for 2 years now, she is falling behind which is a big worry. There are no teachers at the hospitals so she is losing her education.

My daughter is losing her childhood, all the treatments are dominating her life, we are always going back and forth to the hospital and that is what her life is about.

As a mom my home has become strange. It is very hard to be a mother to my other children because I am always with Kwandile.

I have 6 children and money is a big problem for us.

MESSAGE OF THE PHOTO: *Nobody should have to sleep on the hard floor,
...especially not sick children.*
